DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

The drawings are objected to because reference number 21 is not in the figures. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: In the specification on page 6, line 15 the convexo-concave member is described as being a rigid shell of a plastic material. However, it is not clear as to what the term "rigid" encompasses. It is not clear as to how "rigid" the plastic material is. It is not clear as to whether it is just more rigid than the other fabric material layers or if it is extremely hard and rigid with no bend ability at all. It appears that it is just more rigid than the fabric layers but would still give and flex about the wearer's breast for comfort.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claims 2-7 are objected to because of the following informalities: In claim 2, line 3 the convexo-concave member is claimed as a "rigid shell" This terminology is not clearly defined in the claims or specification for the same reasons as discussed above. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Siedl (US 3,513,852) .

Seidl discloses a nursing breast protection device comprising a convexo-concave breast covering member (guard 50) formed as a rigid plastic shell in that the layer 50 is more rigid than the fabric layers as broadly claimed and disclosed. Seidl also discloses the pad member within the fabric 60, a pad covering means-the fabric cover layer at 60 and a fastening member to attach the convexo-concave member to a bra (58 to 58'). (See Seidl, figures 1-4 and col. 2, line 55 – col. 3, line 12). Seidl discloses elongate slots at the upper portion 51 between the ribs 51a as seen in figure 3 and col. 2, lines 65-68.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Seidl (US 3,513,852) in view of Foley et al (US 6,695,678).

Seidl discloses the pad as being formed of an absorbent material. However, Seidl does not specifically disclose the absorbent material as being cotton or that the pad includes a liner layer that is woven of micro fibers and coated with Lanolin. Foley et al discloses the absorbent pad layer 40 as being of a cotton absorbent material (see Foley et al, col. 3, lines 12-14). Foley et al also discloses an inner liner layer 20 next to the wearer's breast including a coating of lanolin 50 including an embodiment with a woven layer (See Foley et al, col. 3, line 67 – col. 4, line 11 and col. 5, lines 17-32).

Claims 6 and 7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

None of the cited references, alone or in combination, disclose the adhesive tape within an elongate slot on the convex side of the member so that the tape is flush with the convex side as claimed in claims 6 and 7.
